

"Uncle Charlie" Perry 92 Years Young

MR. S. C. PERRY, Age 92.

Mr. Samuel Charles Perry, of Lockport, N. Y., who is 92 years old and a bachelor, retains all his faculties to a remarkable degree. He is as active and vigorous as he was twenty years ago. Recently, when celebrating his 92d birthday, he entertained his friends by playing on the violin, which he has owned for over sixty years, many old-time pieces.

For many years Mr. Perry has been prominent in business and politics.

In his old age he finds Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey indispensable, and the only medicine to which his vigor is due; he says that it has no equal.

Mr. Perry writes: "The vitality and usefulness of my powers, which I have preserved through a long life up to the age of ninety-two, I attribute partly to moderation in all things, partly to an indisposition to worry, and partly to my natural abhorrence of all kinds of drugs."

"In my extreme old age I am exercising the same discretion, with but the one exception, that I find Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey an indispensable medicine. As a tonic and general preserver of health in old age I believe that it has no equal."

Every testimonial is guaranteed genuine, and is published in good faith with full consent.

Mr. Perry's case is similar to that of thousands of others, both aged men and women, who have been kept hale, hearty and vigorous by the constant use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine. It is a predigested food which has a stimulating and tonic effect upon the system. It builds nerve tissues, prevents decay and keeps the entire system in a normal, healthy condition.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

If you wish to keep young, strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, regularly, according to direction. It tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

It's the only absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1.00. OLD METHODS ARE RAPIDLY PASSING

Farmers are Learning the Lessons of Proper Tilling and Seeding.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
FRELING, VA., March 13.—That the old methods of farming in this section are being improved upon, is quite apparent, even to the casual onlooker. While the extensive use of machinery of the new land-saving character is hardly practicable in this mountainous section, yet through the limited use of farm machinery, many of the old slow methods are being eliminated, and the farmers are realizing that their interests are being advanced. In short, the more practical business methods of farming thus obtaining are teaching a lesson.

More attention is being paid to soil fertility than was formerly. The practice was—and that at no very remote period in the history of farming—to till the land till it became worn—the fertility exhausted—and then to abandon it as waste and clear up new land. Also, the fact may be referred to in this connection that no effort was made to prevent erosion of hillside land under the old order. Now efforts are being made to prevent this destructive agency by cross-tilling, "strawing" the land and other methods.

Much attention is being given to the seed from which crops are to be grown, and the more improved are being sought. Farmers are beginning to realize the fact that home-grown seed will not do well, year after year, and that changes are necessary to a continuation of good crops. They also realize that a few acres well cultivated is better than a half-township under the old order.

COMPANY PURCHASES LAND.

It Will Probably Be Used as Sites for Buildings.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINCHESTER, VA., March 13.—A deed has been admitted to record in the city clerk's office from Mrs. Margaret L. Krom to the Cumberland Valley and Martinsburg Railroad Company for two tracts of land between the Martinsburg and North Frederick turnpikes, which, it is understood, will be used by the Cumberland Valley Railroad for sites for warehouses and manufacturing enterprises. The consideration named in the deed was $12,500. The negotiations had been pending for some time.

The land conveyed adjoining the property of the railroad company, and it consists of a strip about fifty feet wide and 612 feet long. Civil engineers in the employ of the railroad made survey some time ago for an extension of the railroad line from a point near the grounds of the Shenandoah Valley Agricultural Society in an easterly direction across Main and Market Streets to the Robinson Ice and Cold Storage plant, which is situated near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight yard.

For a long time there has been an agreement of some kind between both railroads to make connections in that vicinity and to maintain a belt line, but the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad recently informed the Commonwealth that it was not at present in a position to make the short extension of its line.

The Cumberland Valley Railroad, on the other hand, has acquired more land in order to widen its right of way and leave room for the erection of warehouses and buildings.

WAGE IS GUILTY, JURY SAYS

Lynchburg Man Is Convicted of Having Killed Sister's Sweetheart.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LYNCHBURG, VA., March 13.—At 5:30 o'clock this evening the jury in the case of Ernest Wade, who was charged with the murder of Isaac Higginbotham, sweetheart of Wade's sister, on January 23, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. A formal motion for a new trial will be argued March 30.

The verdict, which came after an hour's conference, was a surprise, as it was generally expected that the result would be a hung jury, despite the strong chain of circumstantial evidence produced against Wade.

Wade and his sister, who was to have married the man who was killed, were in the courtroom when the verdict was rendered, but none of them displayed the slightest emotion. Only Wade turned white, but not a muscle of his face moved. There was no demonstration on the part of the crowd.

The only evidence of real interest of the morning session was given by Miss May Wade, sister of the prisoner, who testified that she did not tell her lover that her brother intended to kill him. Higginbotham in his dying statement said she did tell him so.

The argument was limited to four hours, and it was listened to throughout by a packed courtroom.

The Crime.
On the night of January 23 Higginbotham, who was a member of the Lynchburg Fire Department, was returning from the Wade home, where he had spent the evening with the sister of the accused. As Higginbotham was crossing the Ninth Street Bridge over the James River, coming from Madison Heights, a man stopped him, covered and fired at least three shots at him, all of them taking effect. Higginbotham died the next day at the City Hospital, after making an ante-mortem statement that he believed his assailant was Ernest Wade; that he looked like Wade, and that he knew Wade had threatened to murder him.

The other evidence in the case was purely circumstantial, though suspicion quickly rested upon young Wade, and the day following the shooting he was arrested at his home in Amherst county. He has never made a statement for publication, but it has always been claimed by his family, including Higginbotham's sweetheart, that he was at home during the evening.

Cayenne pepper was scattered about the scene of the shooting next morning, and Wade was seen there by several witnesses, while it was proved that he purchased pepper half an hour before he was seen following the road which was taken by the man who shot Higginbotham.

It has never been known why Wade objected to Higginbotham's attentions to his sister, but this was the reason for the feeling which is said to have existed between them.

MAKING CONVERTS FOR GOOD ROADS

An Enthusiastic Meeting Is Held by Association at Culpeper.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CULPEPER, VA., March 13.—An enthusiastic "good roads" meeting was held today at Culpeper Courthouse, P. St. Julien Wilson, State Highway Commissioner, and Senator Lassiter, chairman of the executive committee of the Virginia Good Roads Association, made addresses. After Mr. Lassiter's address most of the men present joined the State association.

The citizens of Culpeper, as a result of the meeting, hope to form a voluntary association to raise enough money to secure the return of the convict camp and the renewal of work on the improved roads out of Culpeper, the work on which was stopped by a recent decision of the Supreme Court. It is hoped to increase the membership of the local association to 150 members. H. B. Smith, one of the most active young business men of Culpeper, is vice-president for the county.

The conservative people here were much pleased with Senator Lassiter's speech, which was enthusiastically received. Mr. Lassiter has been working on the roads question so long that he was able to present the facts with great clearness, and many converts were made for the good roads cause.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, head of the Italian bureau of the New York police department, was assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, yesterday, according to a special cable dispatch to the Herald today. The assassins, the dispatch says, are unknown. Lieutenant Petrosino went to Italy on a special mission to investigate the so-called black hand with a view to bringing about better protection for business in Italy to this country. Joseph Petrosino was the black hand expert of the New York police department and a terror to Italian criminals. It is said that he had more convictions for murder to his credit than any five policemen connected with the detective bureau.

In his work it is but natural that he incurred the enmity of all Italian criminals and the report of his death in Italy led to the belief that he at last fell a victim to those whom he had so relentlessly prosecuted. He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan suggested by Police Commissioner Kinyon, the basis of which was the adoption of means to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to this country and particularly to New York city. A native of Italy and a man of great experience on the local police force, Petrosino was the best all-around man to accomplish the mission. A private subscription was started and $30,000 was raised.

Ignored Warning.
With this to defray the expenses of the undertaking at Palermo, Sicily, he had land to establish bureaus through which it was hoped to keep such complete records that the news of the departure from Italy or Sicily of any criminals could be flashed to this country almost immediately so that the authorities here could be on the alert and prevent their landing, or place them under arrest. Petrosino was so accustomed to receiving threatening communications and of hearing threats against his life that he paid little attention to them. It is said that he had been warned against going to Palermo, where he is reported to have been assassinated, but he ignored the threat and scoffed at the idea of being killed.

Prominent Italians in the city are of the opinion that the detective net death among his countrymen as a direct result of his untiring efforts to suppress the Mafia, the terror and the black hand, which they think are the only way to serve to kindle anew the feeling against these criminals which will bring about even a more drastic crusade against them than has heretofore been conducted.

It is said that he had more convictions for murder to his credit than any five policemen connected with the detective bureau.

In his work it is but natural that he incurred the enmity of all Italian criminals and the report of his death in Italy led to the belief that he at last fell a victim to those whom he had so relentlessly prosecuted. He went to Italy more than a year ago to work on a plan suggested by Police Commissioner Kinyon, the basis of which was the adoption of means to check the tide of undesirable Italians and Sicilians to this country and particularly to New York city. A native of Italy and a man of great experience on the local police force, Petrosino was the best all-around man to accomplish the mission. A private subscription was started and $30,000 was raised.

Ignored Warning.
With this to defray the expenses of the undertaking at Palermo, Sicily, he had land to establish bureaus through which it was hoped to keep such complete records that the news of the departure from Italy or Sicily of any criminals could be flashed to this country almost immediately so that the authorities here could be on the alert and prevent their landing, or place them under arrest. Petrosino was so accustomed to receiving threatening communications and of hearing threats against his life that he paid little attention to them. It is said that he had been warned against going to Palermo, where he is reported to have been assassinated, but he ignored the threat and scoffed at the idea of being killed.
